Taiwan Docs Catalogue

About Taiwan Docs

Taiwan Docs is a platform based under Taiwan Film Institute. The mission is to promote Taiwanese documentaries abroad and to assist local filmmakers in reaching a wider audience.

To reinforce the visibility of Taiwanese documentaries, this catalogue presents a selection of the most relevant documentaries made by local talents. It encompasses latest works completed between 2017 and 2018, also projects in progress. You could find more information about these films on Taiwan Docs website.

We think of ourselves as a window between international festival curators, media, institute, or anyone who is interested in Taiwanese documentary films and filmmakers. Hope to provide promotional resources for local filmmakers and reliable information for professionals overseas. Join us to explore!

Justice, Unjust Verdict, Human Rights

HSU Tzu-chiang was pronounced guilty and sentenced to death in a 1995 kidnapping and murder case despite the lack of forensic evidence. After a 16-year effort by NGOs, HSU was released with a life sentence in 2016. Now out of prison, he continues the fight to prove his innocence.

Director CHI has been documenting and filming HSU's story since 2012. The journey brought CHI face-to-face with the shortcomings of human society and inspired his investigation into why the judicial system failed HSU by presuming his guilt without any corroborating evidence.

Director CHI Yueh-chun

CHI Yueh-chun participated in various social movements as a video activist covering issues such as urban redevelopment and resettlement, urban indigenous communities, agriculture, environment, labour, independent media, as well as justice and human rights. He also took part in the development of webcasting, aiming to change broadcasting media via social activism. In recent years, he focuses on filming documentary and producing commercials and short films. He is currently planning the production of a feature film.

Producer TSAI Tsung-lung

TSAI Tsung-lung started his career as a journalist for the Independence Morning Post and Wealth Magazine, where the daily task was to follow what was happening in the news. Later he joined Investigation Report (Super TV) and Hall of Dissent (FTV) and took charge of the in-depth report and investigation. These experiences helped him better understand our society. When he accidentally read about a vacancy at the Documentary Division of PTS Taiwan, he daringly took his leap onto the path of documentary and stayed on.

The iron casting master KUO Chang-hsi, now 74, learned the craft from his father when he was 13. Over 100 weapons in Ang LEE's film Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon were made by him; LI Chun-hung was a bank clerk, but he decided to quit his job and took over the family business once he realized that his parent could no longer handle the heavy work at their kiln. What drives these people to engage in traditional crafts is their belief that culture and crafts need to be passed onto future generations.

With stunning scenes ranging from the vibrant underwater world, lush terraced fields, mountain landscape, to tropical fish and butterflies; and with prominent artisans spanning oil-paper umbrella master, drum-maker, feather duster craftsman, to the tea-picking worker, Formosa 3D presents 10 fine shots of exquisite scenery and 100 traditional craftsmen to remind us the beauty of Taiwan.

Director Charlie CHU

By the age of 35, Charlie CHU has made thousands of music videos. He was a star in the industry before a fist-sized brain tumor changed his life forever. His doctor said he had only six months to live. However, CHU found his hope in the midst of despair and beat the grim reaper. From then on, he vowed to use his filming skills to contribute to a better world.

Sport, Gymnastics

LIN Yu-hsien is a gymnastics coach who returned to his hometown after a career setback more than a decade ago. LIN trained seven young boys there, and he made a childish yet ambitious deal with the boys that they would make it to the Olympics one day.

The boys have grown into men, but only HUANG and LEE continue to pursue their dream with LIN, who's now the coach of the Taiwanese national gymnastics team. For HUANG and LEE, it is the Olympics dream that keeps them going. They have made it through the pain caused by numerous jumps and falls, and now they are going all out, marching dauntlessly to the goal.

With a detached gaze, the film captures what it is really like to be at the construction site, depicting the sense of uncertainty and powerlessness that weighs on the construction workers.

In a closed and depressed environment as such, the variation of sound and space is the only way for people underground to feel the gradual lapse of time. The cold building resembles not only a spider web in appearance, but also a jail in essence.

Temporary

HSU Hui-ju 許慧如 / 30 min / 2017

Labor, Abandoned Factories, Working Class

HSU took a non-traditional approach to make this documentary. She hired three real-life temporary workers to play themselves in an abandoned factory, which is both their stage and where they build a temporary home. They live on the edge in between the real and virtual world, between city and wilderness, and between family life and homelessness.

With these workers, the abandoned factory, and the signs that read "help wanted" on the walls, the film reflects the reality of the working class. They are "relics" of the modern industrialization process, cast aside to the empty, barren fringe of cities.

Director HSU Hui-ju

HSU is a part-time filmmaker and a full-time mother of two children. Her works, which often deal with life and death, pierce the absurdity of life through a silent gaze and reconstruct the meaning of our suffering in the context of family or other social fields. Her films tend to carry a cold and distant tone, but they end up arriving at another kind of gentleness in one way or another.

Tsunma, an honorific term connoting "noble, delicate, and pure", refers to the Tibetan Buddhist Nuns of the Himalayan Region who have been largely dismissed or forgotten by the traditions they follow and the societies they've served.

Taiwanese photographer Lifang LIN undertook a solo journey up 4,270 meters into the Himalayan Plateau and lived for an entire summer with some of these nuns and recorded life in the unforgiving environment dubbed "The Roof of the World". There, Lifang LIN captured a life devoted to hope and faith and a people possessing a unique kind of tolerance, humility, and perseverance.

This is a story of the Nuns of the Himalayas, of seeing one's life through theirs, that is, a life lived in faith and with the spark of a summer eternal.

To date, her works include Papa's Youthful Dream, Buddha's Sons, The Returners, and My Mother have been selected for film festivals worldwide.

Producer Gavin LIN

Graduated from Pittsburg State University, Gavin is skilled in creating characters' emotions and producing delicate, touching stories. He released his first 35mm feature film In Case of Love in 2010 and his second feature film Revenge of the Factory Woman was nominated by international festivals.

Welcome Home

HUANG Chia-chun 黃嘉俊 / 82 min / 2017

Social Issue, Nursing Home

How do we measure a person's worth? By his title, income, social status, or wealth? For those suffering from severe disabilities, unable to work, and even deemed a burden to society, how would they be evaluated? How do they connect with society, and how would they describe their lives?

Situated in a desolate, low-lying land in Tainan, Wujia Nursing Home often gets flooded during typhoon season. However, it's a permanent home for a group of patients of all ages, each of whom is challenged by disabilities or diseases and carrying a heartbreaking story. We used to label them as "disadvantaged" and mark the institutions as charitable organizations. The ridiculous truth is covered up and sugarcoated with sweet fantasy, and even "doing charitable deeds" has become a lifestyle or a way to raise social status.

Welcome Home leads audiences through the closed doors, looking into the reality we never really know.

Director HUANG Chia-chun

HUANG Chia-chun, a.k.a O-Turn, obtained his MFA from the National Taiwan University of Arts. In 2008, his first feature documentary They Are Flying won Best Documentary at Taipei Film Awards. In 2013, his work Rock Me to the Moon won Audience Choice Award at Taipei Film Awards and Best Original Film Song at Golden Horse Awards.

Toxic Bees-Human Intervention, the sequel to Taiwan Public Television Service's Toxic Bees- Nature's Mayday in 2014, continues to tackle environmental sustainability issues. Apart from tracing the mystery of bees disappearing worldwide, this film builds stronger scientific links between pollution, human health, and bees.

The documentary took 18 months to investigate pesticide misuse, revealing the difficulties and pressures faced by beekeepers committed to environmental protection, scientists supporting pesticide control, and scholars concerned about public health. It also portrays how these people, acting with their conscience, advocate new ideas while fighting against the oligopolies that control the agricultural supply chain.

Furthermore, the documentary extends its reach from Taiwan to other countries filled with controversy over pesticide use, such as Japan and the United State. By interviewing people on site, the film covers these contested issues from all angles.

Body Talk

尋找乳房

Singing CHEN 陳芯宜 / 80 min / 2017

Lifestyle, Female, Social Issue

Is this my body? Who am I? As the carrier of spirit and will, how does a woman's body struggle, jostle, collide, and merge with everything but herself? The body seems to follow the mind as merely its shell or tool. However the body does possess memory. It knows how it feels to be tired, injured, sick, fat, being visible or invisible, bearing life or decaying and aging... Have you looked at your body carefully? Everything about you is buried amongst the hair, deep in your skin, down in your guts, or within those millions of nerves. Whether you have forgotten, your body remembers.

We interviewed nearly thirty women and interspersed the clips throughout the film to discuss body's birth, aging, and illnesses during the course of life. Through these talks we learn the diverse female body experience, as if overhearing women's whispers that flow in a feminine tone.

Director & Producer Singing CHEN

One of the most talented and promising young directors in Taiwan, CHEN is well known for her unique styles and fast paces with focuses on issues in art and culture. In 2007, God Man Dog, was selected in The Forum at the Berlin International Film Festival and was voted Best Film by the Der Tagesspiegel. Furthermore, it was invited to more than 30 film festivals, including Busan International Film Festival and Fribourg Film Festival. "Looking for?" – one of the most commonly asked questions on all gay dating apps – is not easy to answer, at least for CHOU, the director, when he saw it for the first time four years ago.

The question then leads him to start a journey in search of answers, by encountering 60 gay men from various cities across the world, exchanging experiences and stories about love, lust, and getting lost in their lives for being a gay in the modern time.

As time goes by, though all the questions remain perplexing, this journey, like all the greatest journeys, opens up a chance for the audience to reconsider: What are we looking for?

Despite harsh condemnation and denunciation from society, a heterosexual female pastor founded Taiwan's first LGBT-affirming church in May 1996. For LGBT Christians, who had been rejected by the Christian community for a long time, they finally have a church that offers them a safe haven. Though the founder has passed away, the church members continue to make their voice heard, confronting the unjust social institutions while struggling with religious conflict at the same time.

Come hell or high water, they strive to make a difference in the lives of others by telling their own life stories, in hope that love will eventually trump hate and solve misunderstanding someday.

This is an exceptional film about YANG Chin-chih, a renowned Taiwanese multidisciplinary artist who has lived in New York City for over 30 years. The story interweaves YANG's facial disorder and his unique works that incorporate the rhythms and discords of human society.

His works address the wantonly discarded industrial waste, whereas his face has been partially paralyzed and twisted for nearly 40 years due to a disease in his youth. For that he has undertaken five surgical operations but all in vain.

YANG is a remarkable performance artist in New York visual art world, widely known for his most praised piece "Kill Me Or Change", in which he showered 30,000 empty aluminum cans on his head within 20 seconds. His performances often dramatize the divided quality of the self, and he frequently uses video projections to create a discordant ambience to strengthen his warning.

Director HUANG Ming-chuan

HUANG has committed to full-time documentary production since 2000 and he is currently based in Taipei. After graduating from the Law School of National Taiwan University, he left for New York and established his career in still photography.

He has been acknowledged as the "forefather of independent film" in Taiwan after his first narrative feature The Man from Island West, while Avant-Garde Liberation, his most renowned TV documentary series that depict 14 Taiwanese contemporary artists, won the first Taishan Arts Award.

Hanzi is a documentary exploring international design, visual culture, and identity through the lens of modern Chinese typography. The film covers a variety of topics such as how languages shape identity, and what role handwriting plays in the digital age. Collaborating with filmmakers from many countries, Hanzi includes interview clips with Chineasy's founder HSUEH Shao-lan, renowned font designer Akira Kobayashi from Japan, veteran Chinese font designer Sammy OR, and the last type foundry for traditional Chinese letterpress in the world, Ri-Xing Type Foundry. Focusing on Chinese typography with universally applicable insights, Hanzi encourages its audiences to revisit and rediscover their own culture, language, and identity.

The Elephant Dancer

HUANG Ting-fu 黃庭輔 / 22 min / 2018

Everyone has childhood memories of a zoo. The 1950s were a paradise with monkeys riding bicycles and lions jumping through rings of fire. Animals of today are placed in an artificial, "virtual" natural environment, and are subjugated as "humanised" animals. They lose their natural habits and become physically and mentally warped. As we see elephants dancing, does this signify happiness, anxiety, or a bottomless pit?

Scissors and the Cat

HOU Chi-jan 侯季然 / 18 min / 2018

The cat has disappeared in a night of torrential rain; they say if you point a pair of scissors to your doorstep and silently call the cat's name, a mysterious force will lead your cat back. Half a world away, I silently call my cat's name, and my memories take me across the waters of the underworld, as things I have lost in the past now stand before my eyes. As the scissors slice time open, can the cat find its way home?

The Last Documentary Fossil

最後的影像化石

LIN Tay-jou, WU Duan-sheng 林泰州、吳端盛 / 25 min / 2018

In 2118 an alien named X surveys the Earth in his flying saucer. In this wasteland, where humans have long become extinct due to heavy pollution, he finds a bunch of rotting "image fossils" (old, discarded films). X is puzzled by these images: Why are they building a machine that belches smoke? Why are there ribbon-cutting ceremonies? This is a sci-fi film in an alternate style.

A Talk with Yin-shang Liu

與引商阿姨對話

Wen Chih-yi 溫知儀 / 20 min / 2018

LIU and WEN share a collaborative relationship in film, and also a close friendship despite their age difference. In this visit by WEN, we enter LIU's life and reflect on her five-decade career in acting. Regardless of glamour or monotony, a steadfast mindset always prevails.

Written on the Sky

太陽雨

CHIANG Hsiu-chiung 姜秀瓊 / 25 min / 2018

In 1995 when Taiwan reached the pinnacle of economic prosperity and the flowers of art blossomed everywhere, we just had our wings fully grown and were ready to fly, yet he passed away at the young age of 26. His death left a scar in our lives and rang a bell of alarm. As we reflect upon his youthful smile and tribulations of love, we find that even after more than 20 years, the stroke of the bell still reverberates among us.

Silent Steps

默默行

Jessica Wan-yu LIN 林婉玉 / 21 min / 2018

Ah-zhong is a non-upright walker, a theatre worker and a man of action. Walking forms the basis for his bodily training and is also one of his methods of expression. Through prolonged and repeated walks, interspersed with cigarette breaks, he enters into another world by imagining "Who am I?"; and with it comes the strength for living.

The Horrible Thirty: Me, My Father and Richard the Tiger

虎父的妞妞未而立

Rina B. TSOU 鄒隆娜 / 23 min / 2018

As she nears the age of 30, Rina still tries to find, with some difficulty, a path to become a film director. This year her father Richard, who she misses dearly, sends his favorite animal and Chinese zodiac sign, the tiger, to silently listen and follow his daughter through her unsteady sound of life. Through the medium of film, we distantly imagine what the world was like in the 1950s, when he himself was 30.

In Trance We Gaze

Singing CHEN 陳芯宜 / 20 min / 2018

Under constant regimes of discipline and incorporation, rituals, faiths, bodies, and the position of man and god all trend towards uprootedness, where we lose our links to the land and to others. Time is dissected into ever more infinitesimal parts. Those who could not keep up now appear within the gaze of a stopped frame. Regardless of man or god, all destruction and rebirth meet at this point in search of a safe corner.

Moment Within Time

SHEN Ko-shang 沈可尚 / 20 min / 2018

I rarely see or speak to my own father. Old images, which have an independent, fictional time, intimately occupy my and my father's consciousness or memories. After nearly 30 years of this frozen relationship, I look forward to using film to document this "time", which becomes a concrete and direct journey when it radiates through a world filled with real emotions.

32 Km-60 Years

32公里~六十年

Laha MEBOW 陳潔瑤 / 20 min / 2018

After being abandoned for nearly seven decades, the old tribal village is difficult to reach with almost no roads leading to it. The only guide on our journey in search of our roots is Wilang, who drags his octogenarian body up the mountain. As we follow Wilang's footsteps, we travel a tunnel back in time...

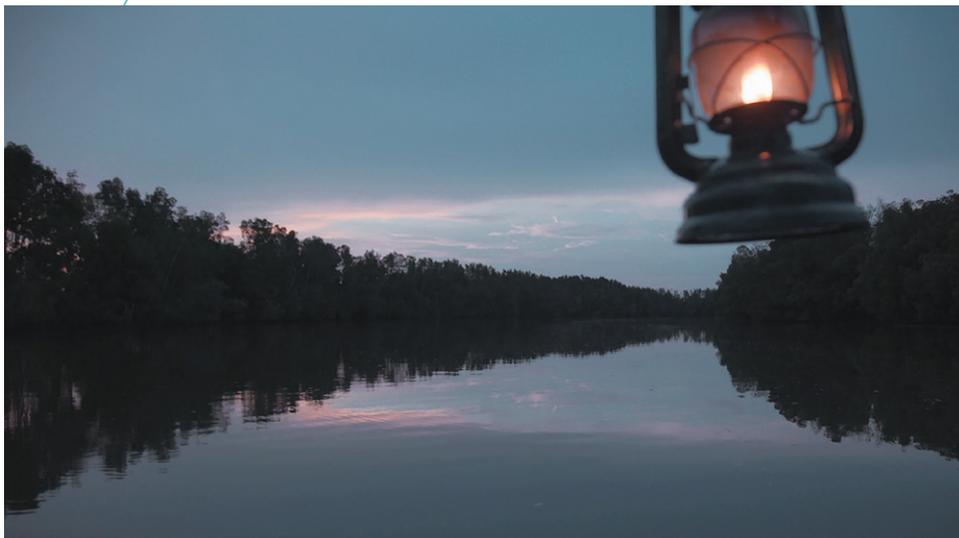

Firefly

螢火

LAU Kek-huat 廖克發 / 20 min / 2018

A story about ethnic Chinese Malaysians in the late 18th and early 19th centuries: as they traverse the lands in the South China Sea, they become like fireflies quivering upon the dark waters.

Taiwan Province of China

不曾消失的台灣省

FU Yue 傅瑜 / 24 min / 2018

As someone who grew up in a family that wasn't originally from Taiwan, I didn't identify with "Taiwan" at first. With the term "Taiwan Province" now consigned to the dustbin of history, in this short film I aim to comb through my own past from the vantage point of one's "province of origin".

One World
One Dream

一中

CHUNG Chuan 鍾權 / 20 min / 2018

People say what happened in dreams is opposite to that in reality; however, sometimes, reality is like a dream, as well as a mirror image: although it can present a reversed reflection, it cannot reverse time. Like an island where its time and space are stagnating, a current moment may seem familiar in dreams.

Acting is a very mysterious job. If you are new to this business, you'll certainly encounter a lot of difficulties such as low pay, long working hours, and no guarantee of future employment.

But there are always people who want to chase their dreams, trying everything they can just to get in the acting business. WU documents three extra actors of different generations in Taiwan. Through their stories, we discover how they struggle to pursue their show business dream in Taiwan, and how has Taiwan's role in Film & TV industry changed in the Chinese-speaking world.

Kollyan is from Cambodia. When she missed her mom, she has to leave her family in Taiwan behind and spends tens of thousands of dollars to take flight for several hours to see her parents.

Sally's parents are no longer with her, but she still remembers the taste of her mom's cuisine. She follows her Mom's way of cooking, and it brings her back to the time like her Mom was still with her.

What about me? Without the experience of migration, I was conjoined with another person's life by the immigration officer on the national border. Since then, the questions "Who am I?" and "Who could I be?" have rooted in my mind.

Director & Producer CHEN Hui-ping

The history of the Taiwanese democratisation is usually interpreted by elites from different political parties, who often neglect the real faces and lives of individuals participating in the rallies. The director, a confused twenty-something, looks back upon the 40-year history of democratisation in Taiwan through the life experiences of two veteran grassroots activists. He attempts to discover the causes of their actions and decisions to be lefties as well as their limitations.

Director LIAO Jian-hua

LIAO born in Chiayi, Taiwan. His first feature-length documentary The Last Insurrection was shortlisted in the Taiwanese Competition of Taiwan International Documentary Festival and the Asian Competition of DMZ International Documentary Film Festival in 2016. Through in-depth interviews and research, the film re-examines the Taiwan Independent Association Incident in 1991.

Producer Jewel Chen-lin LAI

LAI received her Master in Film and Screen Study from Goldsmiths College, University of London. She has organized two editions of the acclaimed CNEX Documentary Film Festival and founded Dot Connect Studio in 2012. She currently works as a film producer and festival programmer.

Grandma Hashima is the final person still alive and can tell the stories of "Green Jail, the notorious coal mine in which 3,000 colonial miners were imprisoned before World War II in Okinawa, Japan.

What has happened in the coal mine? Her adoptive father Yang Tien-fu was the head of Taiwanese miners who recruited hundreds of miners to this "Green Jail", making them unable to get back to Taiwan and leave the jail... Is he an assaulter or a victim under Japanese Imperialism?

Grandma is 93-year-old now, alone keeping those secrets. It is the final years of her life, a survivor with the memory of crime, pain, anger and the miserable history throughout 80 years.

Due to his injury, 30-year-old ballet dancer LIANG Shih-huai is forced to put his dance career on hold. While nursing his body through recovery, Shih-huai retraces his tenacious pursuit of ballet from Taiwan, U.S., South Korea, to New Zealand, and he carefully thinks through the options available at this pivotal moment in his career.

Ballet in Tandem centers on Shih-huai's journey in dance and compares it with different generations of Taiwanese dancers' quest for perfection in Western classical dance. Through these stories, this film questions the decision-making process in Taiwanese education system and in other related social institutions, challenges the stereotypical perceptions of the art form, and explores more possibilities for dance, art, and culture in Taiwan.

Director & Producer YANG Wei-hsin

YANG graduated from the prestigious Columbia Film School and is an award-winning editor/director. His thesis film Passing Fancy won the 2008 Directors Guild of America's Student Film Award. Since 2009, he has edited more than a dozen projects ranging from short and feature-length narrative and documentary films, which have won numerous accolades and screened in prominent film festivals worldwide. Ballet in Tandem will be his first feature-length project as a director.

LI Yuan-chia is the first Chinese Conceptual Artist. His ideal of "making a new world" had been in form as he experienced exile during World War II. After war, he studied modern art in Taiwan. From China, Taiwan, Italy, to London, and finally settled down in a conservative village of northern England in 1970s. He built up a museum by his own hand there. It is a museum praising for freedom and open for everyone. It is also his home.

In his whole life, he stood against commercializing art, and practiced art with effort like an acetic, proposing questions to the world: "Is art beyond money?" "Can art make some changes of the world?" Nevertheless, now is 2018, and we can see a great amount of works he left being considerably sensationalized in art market, which represents exactly the phenomena of his questioning for life in contemporary art. Under such circumstances, for friends and people who stand for the art spirit of LI Yuan-chia, how would they reckon and cope with it?

Director & Producer LIAO I-ling

LIAO as a producer, director for feature film and documentary, and freelance artist, is apt at detecting complicated humanity and concealed feelings from real life. Her work How Deep is awarded at the Citizen Film and Video Competition in 2003 Taipei Film Festival. Her first documentary The Weight of Life was selected and awarded in several national festivals.

Director CHU Po-ying
